JUNIOR PROMENADE

Promises to Be a Delightful Festival
---Sophomore Class Make Plans for Hop.

To say that everything connected with the Junior Week of the class of 1913 is going to be better than any other Junior Week, would be showing but scant courtesy to preceding classes; but what can be well and truly said is that the coming Prom week will rank among the first. There will be one evening less of actual festivity but the three big days will present attractions enough for even the most exacting person.

First semester examinations end on Friday, February 2, 1912. It has been the custom in former years to have an informal on Friday evening. This year, however, there will be no attraction for Friday and everyone will have an ample opportunity to recuperate from the nerve strain attending a week of hard examinations. Saturday, February 3, will be the opening day; a basket-ball game is promised for the afternoon and the Informal for the evening when Jackson's Saxophone Trio will be much in evidence. Sunday will be a day of rest for all save the committee. Monday evening is the date set for the Junior Prom, while the play is scheduled for Tuesday evening. The dates, then, in summary are: Saturday, February 3, basket-ball and the Informal; Monday, February 5, the Junior Prom; Tuesday, February 6, the Junior Play.

Sophomore Hop.

The committee appointed by president Gaines consisting of Messrs. Watson, Koehnline, Jenkins, Houston, and Young met with Drs. Allen, Nichols and Reeves last week in regard to making arrangements for a Sophomore Hop this year. Dr. Reeves, speaking for the faculty, advised the shortening of hop week and also the expenditure of a smaller amount of money this year than last.

The final decision was that the 18th and 19th of May, Friday and Saturday should be the days set apart for the Sophomore Hop. Classes are not to be dismissed

STRAW VOTE

Who Is Your Choice for Next President?---Enter the Contest.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Ohio College Press Association held at Ohio State University on October 28, it was decided that the Association take a straw vote among college students of this state to determine their choice for national president in 1912. As a member of the Association the Collegian will conduct this vote among Kenyon students. The result of votes in all the colleges will be announced on November 25, the day set for the meeting of the Association in Columbus.

In casting your vote, the question to be answered is, who is your choice for next president of the United States. Is he Taft, Harmon, Wilson, LaFollette, Clark, Roosevelt or some one else? Do you think party fences will be broken down in 1912? If so, say it on your ballot and tell why. If you have any other speculations on the coming national political situation, write them out and "get in" on the straw vote.

The object of this vote is to find whether there is any special political trend among college students.

the academic, athletic and social life of the campus. This vote may serve either to discredit or establish this claim which has been the subject of a number of recent magazine articles and newspaper editorials.

Clip and fill out the ballot on page 1, and send it in. It can either be mailed to the editor of the straw vote, to the Collegian or dropped in the box beside the bulletin board. Names will not be printed, but are desirable merely to prevent any vote being counted more than once. Don't forget this vote. Fill out the ballot with your own ideas, and get it in early. This information must be in on or before November 23.

The Science Club.

The Science Club held its regular meeting on Tuesday, November 7, in the laboratory, where some of the undergraduate members attempted to demonstrate some interesting scientific facts, much to the amusement of the faculty members present. The evening, however, was profitably and enjoyably spent by all those looking on but was decidedly embarrassing at times to some who were entertaining; all of which goes to show that knowing a fact and explaining it are two widely different propositions and that teaching is not such an easy proposition after all. Every third meeting will be held in the laboratory and will be given over to instructive experiments with a little amusement and a few cigars and cigarettes on the side.

The Reverend Dr. Davies Addressed College Men

A most interesting and instructive talk was heard in the Sterling Room on the evening of Sunday, November 5, when Doctor Davies of Bexley Hall addressed a goodly number of men. His remarks were based upon the opening sentences of the Epistle for the Twenty-first Sunday after Trinity: "My brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of His might. Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil." Doctor Davies spoke in an animated and forcible manner, laying special stress upon the point that we ought to live, not for what we can get, but for what we can do.

KENYON TEAM

Unable to Win---Many Rooters Journey to Columbus to See Team Defeated.

Other Games --- Kenyon vs. Ohio University---Annual Harvard-Yale Game Proves Spectacular.

For the thirteenth time in as many years, Kenyon went down to defeat before Ohio State on Ohio Field, Saturday, November 11th. The game was one well worth seeing, brilliant in spots, always exciting, marked by streaks of bad luck for Kenyon and by much good playing on both sides. State was without the services of "Whitey" Foss, her star quarter, but his absence did not prove much of a handicap. All of Kenyon's cripples were back in the line-up, although misfortune soon overtook some of them for the second time.

The rooting was a feature of the day to an unusual extent. The cheering of the State men is splendidly organized this year and when there is a full turn-out, must be inspiring indeed. Admirable spirit was shown by the University rooters, who cheered both teams and the individual players of each almost impartially. Their courtesy was appreciated on the Kenyon side. Our own delegation, while not so large as at Cleveland, held together better, and with Tayler as leader kept up its enthusiasm to the last and gave the team real encouragement.

The game started with the kick-off to State by Lewis and Kenyon was plunged at once into the worst period of the game as far as she was concerned. State gained through the line and around the ends with apparent ease and in nine minutes had two touchdowns. As Captain Markley kicked goal in both instances, the score was now 12-0. Kenyon managed to hold her opponents scoreless for the rest of the period.

The second quarter was Kenyon's best. The ball was kept in State's territory throughout and more than once her goal line was seriously threatened. The forward pass was worked successfully several times in this period, but the chief source of danger to State lay in Axtell's kicks. Although he missed an attempt at goal from placement, he more than made up for it in straight punting. In one instance, when a long kick went over the heads of all State's backs and rolled over the goal, "Buck" Carr made a wonderful rush down the field, distanced everyone, and closely followed the ball over the line, only to have it get away from him by a bad bound, allowing an Ohio man to recover it. However in spite of Kenyon's aggressiveness State escaped unharmed and the period ended scoreless. Score of first half: 12-0.

The third quarter was started by Lewis again kicking off to State. This half was not so one-sided as the first, but after ten minutes of play, State scored again, principally by straight football, line bucks and one long run. Smith carried the ball over and Markley again kicked goal, running his team's score up to 18. Kenyon did better for the rest of the period, which ended with the ball in her possession on State's 33 yard line.

During the early part of the last quarter, Axtell once more punted over the goal line but the ball was recovered by a State player. Kenyon then received her one penalty of the game, half the distance to her goal line, amounting to about forty yards. This put State again within striking distance and from that time on Kenyon played on the defensive. After a brilliant rally and a long punt had once averted a touchdown, an unlucky fumble was recovered by McCoy, who ran twenty-five yards through a clear field for the last score. Once more Markley kicked goal. When the ball was again put into play, Kenyon had things her own way for the few minutes remaining and the game ended with the ball in State's possession on her own 20-yard line and the score 24-0 in her favor.

The feature of State's game was her consistent team work. The Kenyon team was easily her match in weight, but was handicapped by lack of veteran players and scarcity of substitutes.

Axtell once more distinguished himself in all departments and was brilliantly seconded by Carr until his unfortunate accident in the second quarter robbed the team of his service. All the Kenyon players did well during the team's brilliant flashes, but Anderson, Wickham, Langmade, Rhorabaugh and Wonders deserve especial mention.

Ohio University vs. Kenyon

The game on November 4th, with the Ohio University team at Athens, Ohio, was another of the disappointments of the present season. Our boys did not put up their usual game and lost to a team that we hoped would prove easy after the big games early in the schedule. Some of the Kenyon players were still suffering from injuries received in previous games, which partly accounts for the poor showing.

Ohio scored early in the first quarter on a goal from placement by Lewis, who put the ball over from the thirty-five yard line. In the third quarter, two touchdowns were made by Gibson, one of them after a forty yard run. Lewis kicked goal after one of these touchdowns and the other two points were added by a safety in the fourth quarter. This latter score involved a very doubtful decision on the part of the very incompetent referee.

At one point in the fray, Axtell carried the ball over the line for Kenyon, but then fumbled it and as an Ohio man recovered it, a touchback resulted and nothing was gained. The Athens reports say that Kenyon made good gains on forward passes, but could do very little with straight football.

The feature work for Athens was done by Gibson who made several long runs and scored both touchdowns. Ohio's line was strong in defense, but suffered many penalties for holding and offside play.

As usual Axtell starred at punting and played a good game throughout, while "Fuzzy" Downe was the principal ground-gainer for the Gambier eleven.

Harvard-8, Yale-5.

The annual near-football contest between the Yale team of Old Kenyon and Harvard of Hanna Hall, was staged amid great excitement, on Benson Field, November 10th. Harvard took sweet revenge for the Yale victory of last year, completely outplaying her opponents and winning by a score of 8-5. The game was more one-sided than appears from the score, as Yale was at no time dangerous, except for the few minutes when her lone score was made.

Capt. Matthews scored first for Harvard, picking up a fumble near his own goal line, and leading a regular procession down the field for a touchdown. During the last twenty yards the procession only lacked a hearse. The goal was kicked making a total of six points for Harvard. The other two points resulted from a safety later in the game.

For Yale, Gaines was shoved over Harvard's line during the last few second of play, but the attempt at goal went wide. The stars for the Yale team were Gaines and Tayler, the latter on one occasion recovering one of his own punts. It was one of the fifty yard variety, twenty five up and twenty five down.

Aside from Capt. Matthews and his seventy five yard sprint, "Bill" Jenkins was the bright particular

The advertising business is keeping Van Coolidge, '09, busy in Detroit. He moved to Pittsburgh and then moved back west.

EXPLANATION

The appearance of the vulgarism "Rev." in a heading in the last issue was disagreeable to the editor as well as to the readers. How such errors creep in is beyond our understanding. It was a case where a late article was put in, without being carefully proof-read. Accept it with the knowledge that the editor knows better, and that it is one of the chances we play with the press.

GLEE CLUB

Management Promises a Trip — Trials Will Be Held Soon

In a short time the cold nights will begin to resound with the faltering efforts of the Glee Club. No "slam" at the Glee Club of course; the reference is only to the first few practices.

This year the tiresome work of coming out night after night will not be useless as it has been for the last two years. Arrangements are being made for about thirty men to tour the northern part of Ohio in a special Pullman, during the week immediately after Prom. The general route of the trip will be through Toledo and Cleveland. The faculty has practically given its consent to this plan.

By the time this issue of the Collegian is out, the trials will have been held. The leader has gathered together many fine songs that are sure to make a hit. Material for a Glee Club has never been scarce on the Hill, and this year is no exception. The Mandolin Club has far better prospects than either last year or the year before.

Kenyon has much for which to redeem herself. For two successive years both athletics and the Glee Club, which are the two chief factors in bringing her before the general public, have fallen down from one cause or another; and there can be little doubt that this has influenced the size of the two last entering classes, which have been the smallest in the last ten years. A good Glee Club which will leave a favorable impression wherever it gives a concert will increase the size of next year's freshman class. It is therefore the duty of every man in the college to support the Glee Club, and help it make the best of its opportunities.

THE ASSEMBLY

All of the students of Kenyon should feel much pride in the fact that they have an Assembly here on the Hill, or in other words that they have a student government "for the students and by the students"; yet certain facts have shown themselves during the past two months which warrant some comment upon the attitude of a part of the members toward this important institution of student control.

The chief of these is in regard to the attendance at Assembly meetings. At one meeting held this month an actual count showed only forty-six men present while at only one time during the present academic year have there been more than three-fourths of the men out to a single meeting. This is not student government.

What would be your opinion of a citizen who took no interest whatsoever in the things that went on about him, who ignored vital questions which concerned him as a taxpayer, who did not take the trouble to go to the polls on election day to exercise that inalienable right of all rights, and who allowed other things to so completely take up his time that the outside world was a blank space about him? Would not you say that he had absolutely no place in a civilized and self governing community?

That is about the same situation that those men are in who do not attend Assembly meetings and who sit in their rooms when they should be taking an interest in that which concerns them as Kenyon men. Even if the spirit of the occasion should not be strong enough to get them there, surely the fact that they are members of the Assembly, that the Assembly spends the money contributed by them and that the Assembly passes rules which personally affect each and every one should be enough to get every man out on the first Monday of every month or at any other time when an Assembly meeting is called. Patriotism and loyalty should come before everything else and if there is one way in which a student here at Kenyon may show his love for his college it is by coming out to Assembly meetings and taking an active part in its proceedings. No better opportunity affords itself for towards one's alma mater.

Let this be enough to strike the key note for a better attendance in the future and when the next roll call is made in Philo Hall see to it that every single man on the Hill, be he Senior, Junior, Sophomore or Freshman, is ready to respond with a big loud "Here" at the reading of his name.

STUDENT LECTURE COURSE

In electing a student lecture committee last May, the Assembly expressed its desire for the continuation of lectures such as have been given the last two years. Now it remains for the students to support this plan, or else see it fail. When the members of the committee approach you and ask you to buy a course ticket, as they will do soon, remember that this is not a case of free subscriptions. It is a plan which originated with students and the plan is a profitable one. Students here at Kenyon have few chances to hear speakers of prominent standing in the business or political world. The course this year will consist of six lectures by men well worth hearing. Communications have been entered into with James R. Garfield, recent progressive candidate for the Constitutional Convention from Geauga county, and with John Mitchell, labor leader. They will probably be secured as two of the speakers on the course. Each lecture is followed by an informal gathering and smoker at which the students and speaker may become better acquainted.

Then again through the help of the Larwill lecture foundation, the student lecture committee receives one dollar for every dollar received from the students. As a result you receive double what your money would bring ordinarily.

The first lecture will be delivered soon after Thanksgiving vacation and the course will be completed by May. It offers an excellent opportunity for relieving the monotony of the winter months. Support the committee and the course now by buying tickets. Support it in the future by attending the lectures.

Seen and Heard at the Games.

If the disposition of their respective crowds of rooters is of any significance, Ohio State is fast getting into Kenyon's list of "friendly" rivals. In spite of our friendly relations with Reserve, her crowds have never shown any courtesies to match those of State's cheering contingent at Ohio Field.

Although such a wish may suggest to some one, "the dog in the manger," there would be some pleasure in seeing State beat Oberlin and thus muddling the Ohio championship situation.

"Cy" Axtell has won his position at the head of Ohio punters beyond dispute. In the midst of their unfavorable criticism of the team, individually and collectively, Columbus papers found room to sound the praises of Kenyon's captain. They not only acknowledged him as the best today, but declared that his kicking has rarely ever been equaled in Ohio. With a winning team, Cy's place on the All-State would have been cinched and even yet we have great hopes.

Rorabaugh played well against State until so inconsiderately invited to retire by Dr. Means.

"Buck" Carr seemed very badly hurt in the second quarter at Columbus, but with characteristic pluck insisted that he be allowed to re-enter during the last period. Coach Waters objected and it is to be hoped that his interference will save "Buck" to the team for the remaining games.

The State game was Dr. Means' first effort as a referee and it certainly was a good beginning. Neither side had a single complaint to register against his decisions.

Once more Muskingum went down to defeat, by the overwhelming score of 50-0. And again we say, "Let's get a game with Muskingum."

Princeton lived up to the hopes of her admirers, and has defeated Harvard and Dartmouth, leaving only Yale between her and the coveted championship. On "dope" Princeton should win, but she has not forgotten that 5-3 of last year and is looking forward to no "cinch."

Walter Camp, Jr., continues to be the star of the Yale team and thus to uphold that great reputation established by his father in his own day. But here's betting that he will "go some" to get a place on Camp, Sr.'s All-American.

The last time Kenyon beat State was in 1898, the score being 29-0. And when they let us play Freshmen, we'll do it again!

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

It is proposed to throw open two columns of The Collegian to professional cards. It is thought by the management that this will appeal to alumni engaged in the practice of a profession as a means of legitimate and profitable advertising. The name, class numeral, profession and address of the advertiser will appear. In the case of a firm, the name of such partners as are alumni will appear in addition to the firm name. It is hoped that alumni interested in the plan will communicate at once with the Manager of the Collegian. The rates will be One Dollar a year.

LARWILL COURSE

Opened With Address By the Honorable Theodore Burton.

On Monday and Tuesday evenings, Nov. 13 and 14, the Honorable Theodore E. Burton, United States Senator from Ohio, delivered the opening lecture of the Larwill lecture course. His subject was "Modern Democracy." With that skill and confidence which has marked him as a true American statesman Mr. Burton reviewed the past, discussed the present, and advocated the future of popular government.

In beginning his formal address the history of the Democracy was reviewed in some detail and the Senator told of the many conditions and circumstances which gave the first life to this wonderful institution. "Democracy" he said, "is directly associated with scientific development. The discoverer and the patriot act in unison." Illustrations from almost every civilized country on the globe were given showing that the growth of this form of government either went hand in hand or succeeded discovery and invention, while the remarkable strides in democratic forms of government made in every part of the world since the beginning of the twentieth century were shown and discussed. The relation of this institution to the United States however was discussed at length and occupied the entire lecture given on Tuesday evening. In regard to the much talked of and advocated reform in popular government, the initiative and referendum, the speaker said in part:

The initiative provides for direct legislation through submitting to the voters of a community certain questions which are so desired by a stated percentage of the voters. This desire however must be expressed in a petition signed by a certain number of the electorate. The referendum relates to laws already passed and after a filing of a petition as in the initiative, the question is submitted to a vote of the people. The arguments in favor of the initiative and referendum are as follows: First, they provide a means for the expression of every voter in a community or state as the case may be. It is a perfect method to get the will of the people. Secondly, it reduces the possibility of corruption to a minimum. Thirdly, it provides for a test of public judgment upon any important and vital question. Fourthly, It gives a method of overcoming a stubborn minority and thus saves the legislator from the ill will of the people. Fifthly, Direct control in matters of policy such as would be possible under this system, would tend to divert the voter from political motives to those of welfare and justice. The objections to the proposed change are: First, the average elector is not able to learn enough about the public questions at stake and as has been shown in Oregon where the initiative and referendum have been tried, the decrease in the number of voters who cast their votes at such elections and those cast in the other elections was very much marked. Secondly, The incompetency of the average voter, since he allows business to keep him out and away from politics. Thirdly, it is impossible to get the required interest in such questions as would be submitted to the popular vote. Fourthly, the average voter casts his ballot upon the spur of the moment and not after a careful consideration of the subject.

Another argument for the referendum is the fact that the voter will be so quickened by his new responsibility that he will take a more active part in the political questions of importance. However, it is not new methods that we want but new standards. Thus, the legislators are judged by their appropriations and what they do for their constituents instead of by the laws they place upon the statute books. The local needs so take up their time that they are prevented from taking the interest in general affairs that they should in their position.

There are certain safe guards which should be introduced in all initiative and referendum laws. First, the petition should be signed by a large body of voters instead of a small percentage. Secondly, the petitions should be signed in a public office or voting place so that there would be prima facie evidence of the interest of the signers; and lastly, there should be a larger number of signatures required to constitutional questions than for other questions.

It has seemed that the recall has also been mentioned along with the referendum. A judge differs greatly from an executive officer or a legislator. The judicial officer must be one of much experience in his knowledge of the law; he must be an expert. Therefore if the recall of judges is permitted it is assumed that the judgment of the people in regard to points of law is equal if not superior to that of these professional weighers of justice. If we recall the judges why not submit the verdict of the jury to a referendum or the decision of any case to the people? That must be the logical conclusion if we permit our members of the bench to be subjected to the sudden impulses of our people.

In closing his lecture Senator Burton gave a few injunctions to those who would be model citizens and who might at some time enter the political field. "Take an active interest in politics and give it your care as you would your business. Give practical attention to questions and inform yourselves upon the candidate for election. Never make up your minds that the chief success is in being elected. The man who is elected should do his duty, but if he is not elected let him also do his duty in private life. When you have formed your opinions do not change them during political campaigns, and remember that courage and the same standards of honesty should exist in politics as in business; for if there is any place where we should be honest and full of the higher principles it is within the portals of our National Houses and our State capitols."

History Of Red Cross Seals.

Red Cross Christmas Seals date back in their origin to "charity stamps," first used for the soldiers' relief funds in Boston in 1862, during the Civil War. After the war, this method of raising money was discontinued in this country for a generation, although it found vogue in Portugal, Switzerland, Austria, France, Spain, Denmark, Norway, Russia, Sweden and other European countries. There are now several hundred different types of charity stamps used in all parts of the world, as many as forty being used in Austria for children's hospitals alone.

Stamps or seals were first used to get money for the anti-tuberculosis crusade in Norway and Sweden in 1904. After being used in these countries for three years, as a direct result of the interest of Jacob Riis in this movement, the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis Association, headed by Miss Emily P. Bissell, and the Red Cross Society of Delaware, combined in issuing a Tuberculosis Stamp. So successful was this campaign that nearly $3,000 was realized, and the next year, in 1908, the American Red Cross was induced to issue a National Red Cross Tuberculosis Stamp. From this sale, $135,000 was realized, that amount being almost doubled in 1909. Last year, for the first time, the sale was organized on a comprehensive basis, taking in all parts of the United States, and $310,000 worth were sold. In 1911, the slogan for

ELECTION RESULTS

Democrats Carry Gambier—Students Take Interest in Results

"The only reliable majority is all of 'em." Again, "don't believe all you're told." These and sundry other maxims were well illustrated in the municipal election Tuesday, November seventh, when Mr. Richard Harter, the student candidate, was defeated
for the highest office in the gift of Gambier.

The final count is as follows:
Gersuch, Democrat, 63; Holmes, Republican, 57; Harter, Independent, 36.

The great slump seems to have been due to the ignorance on the part of the voting public as to how to vote for "Dick." A marked sample ballot was posted on the bulletin board, but a few adult male citizens residing in the dormitories failed to comprehend its meaning, and no less than fifteen ballots improperly marked were thrown out by the judges of election. They were all intended for Harter.

Another cause of the falling off
was that several college voters were called home to help decide close and hotly contested elections in Chillicothe, Piqua, and elsewhere.

The college joker, like the poor,
is always with us. "Buck" Carr received one vote for justice of the peace. Reinheimer of Bexley pulled one vote for constable, and says it wasn't his own. Franklin E. Hauck was honored with a vote for Board of Education. Nobody has confessed, but Crawford has a guilty look.

The students as a whole are gratified with the election of Fred Heagren as marshal. As janitor of Old Kenyon he was accommodating in the extreme, and received the solid vote of the student body. "Jack" Jackson tied with his opponent in the fight for the office of treasurer.

Dr. Reeves was re-elected to the Board of Education and Prof.
Devol to the Council. Ray Jacobs, candidate for justice of the peace, received the high vote of the election, 119.

Assembly Meeting

On Monday, Nov. 6, occurred
the second regular meeting of the Kenyon Assembly. The meeting was well attended. After the roll call the reports of the various committees were heard and accepted. Messrs. I. J. Koehnline and Hauck were then elected to the executive and honor committees, respectively, to fill the vacancies caused by the resignation of Mr. Crawford. This concluded the regular business of the evening.

Mr. Gaines, President of the Assembly, then called upon "Bill" Cott, ex-'09, who was present, to address the Assembly. Mr. Cott gave a very interesting talk in the course of which he urged the members of the Assembly to turn out in full force for the State-Kenyon game. Dr. Walton, graduate manager, outlined in a short speech
what he considered to be Kenyon's prospects in the State-Kenyon game. The meeting then adjourned.

The Football Rally

In order to stir up enthusiasm
and promote spirit for the game with State, a rally was held in Philo Hall, Friday evening, November 10. Dr. Downey presided over the meeting. Dr. Newhall gave a short but interesting talk in which he showed his interest in the success of the team. Dr. Newhall was followed by Dr. Walton, who gave a short talk concerning Kenyon's prospects in the game
with State. Messrs. Anderson, Dickinson, Lewis, Rhorabaugh and Wickham of the team gave their views concerning the game Saturday. The consensus of opinion appeared to be that while Kenyon might lose, yet State would know that she had been in a football game that was a game.

Mr. Porter, manager of the team, told of the arrangements that had been made for the accommodation of Kenyon rooters. After giving a couple of "Hikas"
and singing a few songs the meeting adjourned.

Death of Mrs. Theresa T. Joy

Mrs. Theresa T. Joy, widow of Colonel Edmund L. Joy, died at her home, 26 Halsey street, Newark, N. J., on June 8 last. Mrs. Joy was a native of Ohio, being the daughter of Dr. Homer L. Thrall of Columbus, who was for many years professor of chemistry and mineralogy at Kenyon College.
She had been in failing health for several years, and lacked but one day of attaining her seventy-fifth birthday.
